Check on Middleton township Trustee Race Is Looming

The formal request for a recount of the fourth ward ballots which showed George Lewis, Sr., incumbent, victor over Fred W. Koenreich, Democrat, last Tuesday, will be made either late today or Monday morning, Koenreich said today.

One-Vote Margin
The unofficial count, as well as the board of elections tabulation, showed that Lewis received 585 votes to Koenreich's 584.

By precincts, the vote was: Pct. A, Lewis 135, Koenreich 111; Pct. B, Lewis 127, Koenreich 107; Pct. C, Lewis 114, Koenreich 108; Pct. D, Lewis 106, Koenreich 68; Pct. E, Lewis 100, Koenreich 130.

In East Liverpool yesterday Mayor O. Earl Greenwalt, defeated in his third term candidacy by Lee Copenhafer's 42-vote margin, posted $250 bond with the board of elections for a recount of mayoralty votes in all of the "Pottery City's" 25 precincts.

Mayor-Elect Copenhafer immediately announced he would post another $250 to assure completion of the count should Greenwalt lead in a partial check.

Today, both Republican and Democratic leaders indicated that a five-day notice requirement may be waived to permit opening of the recount in East Liverpool Monday.

Act to Save Cost
The election board set Nov. 12 after Greenwalt had posted his bond. Both candidates conferred with attorneys regarding submission of waivers for advancement of the date in order to save the expense of employing watchmen, who, with the election board's representative, are guarding the ballots at city hall.

The official canvass showed 7,942 electors went to the polls, but 93 of them failed to express preference in the mayoralty race.

Another recount also loomed in the county. T. E. Mackall, defeated by four votes by H. E. Lones for a two-year term as Middleton township trustee, has indicated he will seek a recount.

Believe Narcotic
Ring Is Crushed

CLEVELAND, Nov. 6.—A narcotic ring operating extensively in three states was believed crushed today with the arrests of a 65-year-old woman, her son, and her brother.

Michael R. Collegeman, chief federal narcotic agent in this district, said investigations disclosed that the trio arrested in a raid last night had conducted operations in Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania. He estimated the ring had averaged $100,000 annually in narcotic sales.

Killed by Autos

DAYTON, Nov. 6.—Walter Haines, 30, hit by two automobiles, was instantly killed last night. Police said Roy Shepherd said Haines was struck down at a street intersection by one auto then run over by another, which did not stop.

CALLS FOR CLOSE
COLLABORATION

Broadened Accord Contains No Military Clauses

(By Associated Press)

ROME, Nov. 6.—Italy joined Japan and Germany today in an accord against Communism which their protocol declared "continues to place the civilized world" in the "constant" danger of war.

The protocol stipulated that Italy be considered an original signatory of the nearly year-old German-Japanese pact against the Communist International.

Short Document

The protocol was a short document, giving in a 150-word introductory statement the three powers' reasons for the agreement.

The introduction declared that only by close collaboration of "all states interested in maintaining peace" could the war danger be removed.

It paid a separate tribute to Italy which "has combated this danger with an inflexible determination and has eliminated international Communism from its territory."

Italy had decided, the introduction went on, to associate herself with Germany and Japan "who on their part are animated by the same will to defend themselves against the Communist International."

Four brief articles were appended after the introductory statement setting forth these clauses:

1. Italy enters the anti-Communist agreement of Nov. 2, 1936.
2. Italy will be considered as a signatory of the original accord.
3. The protocol is made an integral part of the previous accord and its supplementary protocol.
4. The protocol is done in triplicate in Rome.

No Military Clauses

The new accord was written in Italian, German and Japanese. The broadened accord contained no military clauses. The agreement as originally concluded, however, bound the signatories to keep each other informed of international Communist activities and to act together on "necessary defense measures."

The ceremony of signing the triplicate pact at Palazzo Chigi, the three powers' representatives went to Palazzo Venezia to give Premier Mussolini formal notification.

(The German-Japanese accord had provided for an exchange of police information and a permanent German-Japanese commission to cooperate in the international campaign against the communists.)

Work on a second camp was started Friday near Brookside park at the intersection of State Route 7 with the Lisbon-Elkton road. This camp will be identical with the first.

Miss Esther Hartman, 27, of Lisbon, county health nurse, and two passengers, Clarence Trotter of Salem and Edith Brunner of East Rochester, escaped unhurt when Miss Hartman's automobile skidded on the wet pavement at Albany at noon Friday and overturned.

The accident occurred as the three were returning from a trip to the Mahoning county sanatorium. The vehicle landed on its top.

Bride Loses Her Husband When She Learns He's Brother

Out of approximately 4 million people in the state of Missouri it is a startling vagary of fate that the paths of Ben Ippock, 21, and Mary Lee Williams, 19, (shown above), should have crossed in such an unusual manner as to result in the dissolution of their marriage when they discovered they were brother and sister—literally a chance of one in a million. Ben was 4 years old and Mary Lee was little over 2 when their parents died. Ben grew up without the knowledge he was the adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. Sod Yocum of Mountain Grove, Mo., and Mary Lee was unaware of the fact that she had been adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Ben Williams, who live on a farm near Chilhowee, Mo. When Williams went to a CCC camp to employ a group of nine enrollees to help with fence building, Ben Ippock or Yocum was among them. When Ben and Mary Lee met they fell in love. September 25 they were married secretly. Ben later learned that he was an orphan and that his name was Ben Ippock. He told Mary Lee and she in turn told Mrs. Williams, who recalled that Mary Lee's last name also had been Ippock. Investigation disclosed the two were brother and sister. Shocked over this strange twist in fate, the two had their marriage dissolved in Hartsville, Mo., October 29. Then Ben disappeared. Later Mr. and Mrs. Williams got in touch with him and invited him to come to their home to be with his sister. This picture was taken upon their reunion.

George Mort, Accused In Seat Slashing Case,
Is Acquitted

LISBON, Nov. 6.—George Mort of East Liverpool was freed Friday afternoon by a common pleas court jury after a three-day trial on a charge of malicious destruction of property.

Mort was accused of slashing several seats in an East Liverpool theater as an aftermath to a performance patrons claimed was not staged as advertised. Following his acquittal the defendant shook hands with each jury member.

The trial opened Wednesday with the testimony of five state witnesses, who declared they had seen Mort slash the seats. The defense subpoenaed 41 witnesses, who attended the show.

Mort took the stand Friday morning and denied the charge. A chart of the seating arrangement in the theater and a slashed seat cushion were introduced as exhibits.

The defendant was bound over to the grand jury following a hearing in East Liverpool municipal court. The grand jury at its last session returned a true bill against him.

Youngtown Auto
Thieves Ignited

YOUNGSTOWN, Nov. 6.—Indictments of five men allegedly involved in a three-state automobile theft ring was included in 59 true bills returned Friday by the September grand jury.

The jury ignored 11 charges growing out of steel strike rioting last summer.

The men charged in the car stealing cases are Frank De Angellis, John Matovich, Mike Madved, John Yavorsky and Herbert Yavorsky, all of Youngstown. They are alleged to have aided gang operations in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan.

These advisers were said to feel that a "better atmosphere" could be created for an American journey, possibly next spring.

Eleven Women, One
Man, Return First
Degree Verdict

(BULLETIN)

(By Associated Press)
CINCINNATI, Nov. 6.—Mrs. Anna Marie Hahn, 31-year-old blonde mother, was convicted of first degree murder today in the poison death of Jacob Wagner, 78-year-old retired gardener. The jury did not recommend mercy, making the death penalty mandatory.

The jurors had spent about two and one-half hours in actual deliberations, since receiving the case last night.

Mrs. Hahn would be the first woman ever executed in the State of Ohio.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 6.—Counselled by the prosecutor to "show no mercy" for blondes, Anna Marie Hahn, a jury of 11 women and one man resumed deliberations at 10 a. m. today on the state's charge that the 31-year-old woman fatally poisoned Jacob Wagner, 78.

The jury received the case last night and an hour later was ordered locked up. A woman was reported elected foreman but her identity was not disclosed as the group was sequestered in a downtown hotel, guarded by a bailiff and two women deputies.

Three Verdicts Possible

Judge Charles S. Bell offered a choice of three verdicts: conviction without recommendation, calling for electrocution; conviction with mercy recommended, making life imprisonment mandatory, and acquittal.

Joseph H. Hoodin, chief defense counsel, sought unsuccessfully to have the court's instructions include a second degree murder verdict. Judge Bell commented:

"She either administered poison or she did not."

Mrs. Hahn, appearing tired and worn, was escorted to her prison cell under special guard. Sheriff's Deputy George Heitzler, who has accompanied the woman to the courtroom for each session since the trial opened Oct. 11, said she "almost crumbled right before me" when he called her for Judge Bell's adjournment of deliberations.

"Don't tell me they want me back there already," Heitzler quoted her. "Called 'Heartless, Cruel!'"

The Bavarian-born woman, accused of killing by poison, three elderly men besides Wagner, sat motionless but staring fixedly at Prosecutor Dudley M. Outcalt as he closed the state's argument, declaring:

"We have here the most heartless, cruel, greedy person that has come in the scope of our lives. . . . Show no mercy."

"You can't bring back the lives of these old men but you, by the enforcement of the law, can prevent the repetition of this tragic cycle."

Judge Bell instructed the jury that state's evidence, offered to show Albert Palmer, 72; George Obendorfer, 67, and George Gellman, died of poison at Mrs. Hahn's hands, could be considered only to "prove the defendant's motive" or a "scheme or plan" employed by the woman.

The courtroom was packed as the case came to its climax, front seats being occupied chiefly by fashionably dressed women.

The jury received the case at 9:10 p. m. Friday but was recalled to the courtroom an hour later. Under the close watch of bailiffs and uniformed county police, the twelve marched arm in arm to their hotel. John Granda, lone male juror, was flanked by two elderly housewives.

13th Juror Released
Young Fred Juergens, the 13th juror who sat through the hearing nearly four weeks in case another juror were incapacitated, was released by Judge Bell.

"They'll deliberate for some time," Juergens said.

TWENTY YEARS OF IT

On Nov. 7 Russia celebrates the anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution. Twenty years ago tomorrow the Winter Palace in Petrograd was seized and the czarist regime ended.

Russians have been preoccupied with the revolution ever since, to the extent that 1917 must seem more like a beginning than a climax to them.

At present, they are witnessing a political purge which is a revolution within the revolution. In a short time, they will hold their first popular election. Toward the end of the year, they will mark the end of the second five year plan, which is the means of making revolution economically effective.

It is this rapid tempo of political and economic change that causes the rest of the world to think of Russia still as an experimental society, and it is. But that conception should not be permitted to obscure another important fact.

Russia today is one of the world's oldest governments, older than Germany and Italy which condemn it as an upstart society. Within itself, Russia has been continuing for two decades the revolution which began, historically, in 1917, but its zig-zagging has not, so far, proved fatal.

The United States, which has been having its own revolution for something like 160 years, naturally looks upon the Soviet Union as a youngster—but the youngster's growing up.

JUSTICE BLACK'S HANDICAP

Indignation over Hugo L. Black's appointment to the Supreme Court has cooled down, but the causes of the indignation are just as substantial as ever.

Justice Black's right to participate in the court's work already has been challenged three times, once on the ground that he voted to increase the emoluments of the office of Supreme Court justice when he was a senator, once on the ground that Justice Van Devanter's retirement did not create a vacancy, and once on the ground that he should not rule on the right to seize private telegrams because as a senator he, himself, did seize them.

Furthermore, he has disqualified himself from participation in a review of the Scottsboro decisions, which involve by implication his one-time association with the Ku Klux Klan.

In other words, it is plain that if President Roosevelt's intention had been to injure the standing of the Supreme Court and, indirectly, the prestige of the national government, he could not have chosen a better way than to appoint a man like Senator Black to the highest bench.

It was that thought which inspired most of the outcry against the appointment in the first instance.

IT'S SIMPLE

When all's said and done, the most important election news was the triumph of a reform government in big, bustling, corrupt New York City.

It was the first time a reform mayor ever won election there. It was the first time a district attorney without binding political strings was elected. Thomas E. Dewey has been the strong right arm of Mayor LaGuardia's administration, as a special prosecutor of racketeers.

It was the first time that organized labor, Republicans, liberals and even "reds" have stood shoulder to shoulder.

Plainly, the electorate can become enthusiastic about men who give it good government. Here is opportunity for young men who aspire to political careers—opportunity spelled in capital letters.

All young men need to do is take advantage of it. Even a Tammany Hall cannot resist them if they are willing to work hard enough to prove to voters that there really is a difference among politicians.

It's simple, so simple that only rarely does anyone bother to try it.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, November 7.

Sunday's horoscope, although holding testimony of active and worthy adventures in mystical, occult, cultural or literary pursuits in other directions holds a menace of sinister, subtle and frustrating circumstances, with sudden disruptions, problems and other adverse situations. These should be met with calmness and discretion rather than tumult and impetuosity.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a rather lively year and, in many ways, a progressive and satisfactory one. Nevertheless, there are frustrations, anxieties and sudden dilemmas to be handled with discretion and deliberation.

A child born on this day may have talent and energy, but may be easily discouraged, depressed and difficult. It may be restless and changeable if not properly directed.

For Monday, November 8.

Monday's astrological forecast is a most progressive and prosperous one, with auguries of sudden, high-powered and probably sensational developments. Abrupt and startling visitations or strenuous activities in the launching of new projects or in introducing innovations in employment are in order, but all lead to high satisfactions, exciting adventures and profitable conclusions.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a memorable year, with the sudden precipitation of events which will have an outstanding influence in fashioning the future fortunes. Many exciting and decisive activities are devoted to launching new and perhaps startling projects or to novel improvements in employment.

A child born on this day may have many unusual creative talents with heightened energies and faculties that may bring it success in employment or conspicuous places in the development of new, original and spectacular inventions or projects. Adventure, travel and romance mark its career.

O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Day is breaking after one of those stormy nights I love so well. Zig-zags of brilliant lightning, crashes of thunder and rain in buckets. Out the window all the universe seems refreshed, buoyant and glistening, in the half light of morning.

Many sing the praises of India for its various mysteries. Its appeal to me is in its monsoons. No phenomenon has the wallop of dry earth soaking up a downpour and burgeoning into lovely bloom. The chief charm of Paris is in those sudden flurries that make every Frenchman an umbrella carrier.

Often I have swum up from sound sleep, sluggish and weary with the gravity of affairs; heard the patter of rain and felt like kicking off the covers and indulging in a capriole. There is an after-rain fragrance, even among the man-made cliffs, that chirks the spirits.

The rain is responsible for being at my desk at 6 a. m. with nothing to say, but a surge to write. If I had the gift to turn out that literary will-o'-the-wisp, The Great American Novel, I'd like to do the job on a screened-in porch during a tropical rain at Pango Pango.

Out in a Pittsburgh suburb is a man of prominence who told me that he lived on a remote country estate solely because the isolation permitted him to wander through the grounds in shorts during the rains. Abraham Lincoln was keen for rains and some of his momentous decisions were made while trudging along in a down-pour. Showmen are hep to the value of the rain theme. Willie Collier's "Caught in the Rain" and Somerset Maugham's later "Rain." The outstanding hit of a successful movie revue showed a chorus dancing in the rain.

Snow has almost—but not quite—the emotional tug of rain for me. The picture I enjoy most in my meagre collection is a Virginia snow scene by Percy Crosby. It's fun to get up early this way now and then and beat the barrier with a column. The early riser always interests me. Because I am a late sleeper as a rule, he seems from another world. I am the laggard of an early rising family. My father was always up at 3 a. m., a habit he could not break even after he retired. My grandfathers arose at 4 a. m.

Caught in a mistral while motoring, we were once forced to spend the night at a farmhouse near the French border, in San Sebastian, Spain. My gnarled host asked what time he should awaken us and it was suggested we would be ready any time he had breakfast. Before daylight he knocked and brought in a tray of steaming and fiery fumadoes, filled with hot and burning native spices. It was a dish with the stimulating qualities of a triple brandy on an empty stomach. He said he had been up awhile but decided to let us sleep a little late. We were on our way before 4 a. m. I have been told that rural Spain has long been the earliest rising of all peoples. I can believe it.

I like to think of the sun as the eye of day. And sometimes like the eyes of man. Sometimes bright and sometimes bleary. We wonder in the calm of this daybreak how many men shuffle in a few hours toward the cool tap and a long draught, mumbling "Never again!" A glance out the window reveals the earliest riser of the neighborhood. A jauntily dressed fellow followed by page boys who deposit a pile of blond luggage at the curb and a taxi chugs up. Catching a train, no doubt.

We went to see Gertrude Lawrence for the second time last night. She is one of the few actresses I just like to watch. Especially when she indulges one of those shimmery moods as unpredictable as a humming bird's flight. Not a great actress, in the manner of Katharine Cornell, but one perhaps with the most distinct following in the American theater. No longer a vogue, but an institution. That was a surprising lot of talent Andre Charlot shipped from England 15 years ago, then unknown, but now look! Miss Lawrence, Noel Coward, Jack Buchanan and Beatrice Lillie. And not one completely absorbed by Hollywood. We hear a pleasant rustle in the kitchen. The dog ambles in, indulges a series of stretches and cocks his head quizzically, as much as to say: "What in the world are you doing around at this hour?"

"BLUE BABY"
DESPITE THE advances made in modern obstetrics, the doctor frequently is faced with the problem of resuscitating a "blue baby". According to a recent medical report it is believed that this problem is on the increase. Possibly this is because many mothers insist upon some form of anesthesia to lessen the suffering of labor.

Of course, the use of one or another anesthetic is frequently advised. But it cannot be overlooked that it may not be without danger. A "blue baby" is one whose body tissues are deprived of the necessary amount of oxygen. As I have indicated, this complication of babyhood may occur as a result of the use of certain drugs, or it may be caused by some damage during delivery.

Cause of Condition
It can be traced to some interference in the normal interchange of oxygen and carbon dioxide between the mother and fetus. A marked decrease in the amount of oxygen for the new-born infant may result in serious damage to the brain and other vital structures. To avoid this, certain methods of treatment must be employed as soon as possible.

Fortunately, many procedures are now available for the treatment of blue babies. In former years, the doctor was limited in his choice of measures. Today he may resort to one of many.

In most instances it is found advantageous immediately to administer pure carbon dioxide through a tightly fitted face mask. Three or four inhalations usually stimulate normal respiration and, in due course of time, the blueness disappears.

Artificial Respiration
Occasionally, it may be necessary to resort to artificial respiration and the further administration of pure oxygen. This treatment is continued until the infant is breathing regularly, and it is stopped as soon as normal breathing is established. In rare instances the blueness persists in spite of all efforts at relief. This is because of some defect of the heart or lungs.

An infant at birth, because of an accumulation of mucus in the air passages, may have difficulty in breathing. As a precautionary measure, most doctors now resort to immediate cleansing of the infant's mouth and nose. This will provide adequate breathing space. Children who are born when anesthesia has been used should be watched carefully for any interference in the circulation.

"THE SILVER ROOD MYSTERY"

by Lewis Allen Browne

CHAPTER XXXVII

I had a couple of days of rest, and appreciated it. Phil was in New York over night. When he came back he had a copy of the same record. A girl, Nola, was born to Mrs. Nola Lutzmann on November 10, 1911, at the address of Mrs. Felder.

I was rather ashamed of myself for having neglected to look this up before. I took the information over to Judge Wentworth.

"We all often overlook the simple things that frequently prove to be important," was his comment.

Sergeant Harper got his reports that Mr. and Mrs. Lutzmann seemed to be obeying orders. Aside from making and going out for dinner at a local restaurant, they had left the place. The For Sale sign had been removed.

Howard Griswold was still outwardly calm, but Mary and I both could see that he was under great mental stress. The time was nearing when he would have to go out to Illinois for his new position. He wasn't sure that he would be allowed to do this. I took it up with Harper. I felt that Foxcroft would refuse stubbornly.

"Let's wait and see what we learn from this Professor Lardeau," Harper suggested.

I tried to cheer Griswold by telling him I was fairly sure he would be held here.

Wednesday morning Foxcroft had a wire from his cousin, Mr. Colton. He was on his way to Greatport with Professor Lardeau. They would be out shortly after noon. I don't know how Foxcroft and Harper felt about it. I was more excited than I had been at any time since I was asked to help on the case.

Right after Foxcroft telephoned this information, Mary telephoned me to come up. I went up through the stile along the path between my father-in-law's house and her home. She was sitting on the veranda and Davidson was standing near by.

"You didn't take the silver rood, did you?" she asked.

"Is it gone?"

"Yes, Davidson noticed that it was missing, not ten minutes ago."

"We went into the library. I examined the hook where it had hung for so many years. The filament of wire was on the hook. I had carefully wound it around the rood when I hung it back, just as Harper had originally fixed it, in order to learn if anyone handled it."

"Had any visitors, Mary?" I asked.

"None."

"You didn't show anyone in here, while Miss Montiehl was away, did you, Davidson?"

"No, sir. The rood was there yesterday afternoon. I am quite sure that I never got in the room where it was kept."

"Naturally."

"I don't want it there any longer," Mary cried. "It makes me shudder."

"Someone took it, then," I said.

"Between yesterday afternoon and this forenoon."

"Yes, sir."

"How about the servants?"

"They know nothing about it, at least they say so, sir. I see no reason to doubt them."

"And there has been no one here other than Miss Montiehl, Mrs. Stapleton and the servants?"

"Certainly not since yesterday afternoon," Mary assured me.

"Mason was up last night, sir," Davidson said.

"Up where? In here?"

"Oh, no, sir, he came up around ten o'clock last night. He didn't even come in. I went out and sat with him a half hour in the service yard. Then I walked down as far as the stile with him. He came around the back way, naturally."

"What do you think? I suppose you visit back and forth?"

"Occasionally, sir."

"I will see what I can learn. Meanwhile, you question the servants again, will you, Mary?"

Mary promised. I had to hurry back and get to Greatport. I was beginning to get greatly disturbed about the taking of that silver rood. For some reason, that I couldn'tathom, it struck me as having great significance.

It was two o'clock when Mr. Colton arrived at Foxcroft's office with Professor Henri Lardeau. The professor was smiling and calm. He shook hands with us as Colton introduced him, and sat down quite at ease.

"I can vouch for all that Professor Lardeau will tell you, gentlemen," Colton said, "but he wants to tell it his way."

"Well, first of all, Professor," Sergeant Harper said, "give us your reason for stealing that painting."

"I did not steal it," Lardeau replied.

"What?" Sergeant Harper fairly bellowed, his eyes wide with astonishment. "You didn't steal the painting? You were there. The painting—"

"Please, gentlemen!" Professor Lardeau held up his hand.

I shook my head at Harper.

"If you will let me tell it. It is a strange story. Mr. Colton has verified all of it. I have papers. Let us go about it quietly and then, if you wish, you may do what they call a third degree, is it not?"

Harper nodded. "Go to it," he said.

"I took the painting. I did not steal it. One cannot steal one's own property."

Foxcroft scowled.

"So it was your painting, eh?" Harper asked. One could see that he didn't believe it.

"It was mine, in a way. It belonged to my father, now dead. I inherited all that he left. Yes, it was my painting. And yet, gentlemen, it really belonged to the Swiss National Museum in Zurich."

"We seem to be getting somewhat involved, Professor," I said, to fill the silence as Lardeau looked about at us to see how we took his statement.

"We should have a stenographer," Foxcroft said, arising.

"Not necessary," Colton told him. "I have a complete type statement for you, with other official papers."

"All right," Foxcroft turned to Lardeau. "I suppose someone told you that Mr. Gerard Montiehl had stolen this painting from your father?"

"No, Oh, no, no. All by one splendid accident I found out that Mr. Gerard Montiehl had it and I know now that he had every reason to believe it was his."

"It was only a copy," Foxcroft declared.

"Ha! No copy, gentlemen. I assure you. Ask Mr. Colton, long my good friend."

"I told you that Professor Lardeau wouldn't look twice at any copy," Colton reminded us.

"That painting, gentlemen," the professor assured us, "is a Van Dyck, a genuine, not a copy. It is the head of Prince Charles of England when he was a little lad, the prince who later became King Charles the second. It was done about 1635 when Van Dyck was aged thirty-six. He did a great many portraits of royalty, especially of royal children. It is of great value, very great value."

"Did you bring it back?" Sergeant Harper asked.

"Ha! Never. Why should I? It is now hanging in the Swiss National Museum where it should have been hanging twenty-five years ago."

"Let's clear this up—we aren't interested in the painting; we want to know who killed Gerard Montiehl," Harper declared.

The professor became grave, instantly.

"No one wants to know more than I. When I read of it the shock nearly killed me. I was never so mortally frightened. I took ship to South America and then home, under another name. I did not kill Mr. Montiehl. I did go to his library. I called again to make him another offer, then to tell him that it was not rightly his painting and that the Swiss government would sue him for it if he refused. He was sleeping. There, through the open door to the library, hung the painting that had belonged to my father. Why, I asked myself, waste time to haggle, to fight it in the courts? Why not take what is mine and depart? Let Mr. Montiehl sue if he wished, but the painting would be where it belonged."

"And Montiehl woke up and tried

HUSKING CHAMP IS MINNESOTAN

Ray Hanson, 38, Doesn't Shuck Quite As Much, But His Work Is Cleaner

MARSHALL, Mo., Nov. 6. — A big, shy, Minnesota farmer, 38-year-old Ray Hanson of Bingham Lake, wore the nation's cornhusking crown today because he refused to be ruffled by 19 impatient rivals as rain slashed across his face and mud sucked at his shoes.

The handsome six-footer carried away $100 for 80 minutes of work on a soaked Missouri cornfield, today.

Methodically, while others surged ahead, he cast off his long-standing sobriquet as "hard luck" husker by taking his time. He whipped the best huskers of nine other corn belt states.

When it was all over, the man who has been in 26 contests and four previous nationals without winning, was so abashed he laughingly gumbled up his lines for sound cameras.

Later he confided:

"This championship kinda caught me by surprise."

Hanson didn't shuck as much as many others but he shucked it cleaner and came out with 21.30 bushels.

That was far under the world mark of 41.52 bushels set by Elmer Carlson of Iowa in 1935 but was easily better than the 17.84 bushels credited to ruddy-faced Cecil Vinson of Kansas. Third went to Missouri's Layton Roberts. His total, after deductions, was 17.70.

Exporters Discuss Twin Trade Terrors

CLEVELAND, Nov. 6.—American exporters put their heads together today seeking ways to conquer twin terrors of international trade—war and the dictatorship doctrine of self-sufficiency.

P. M. Haight of New York, secretary-treasurer of the International General Electric Co., led the discussion at the national foreign trade council convention.

"Although American trade so far this year is comfortably ahead of last year," Haight told reporters, "it has shown a tendency in the last two or three months to slide down."

"The far east situation has had some direct effect because of reduction of Chinese trade and Japanese restrictions—that and the Spanish situation have created uneasiness in the minds of international traders so that they are holding back to see what develops."

Not a Chance

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Leonard J. Mueller, 28, went before Judge A. J. Hedding charged with stealing $19 from the poor box of Holy Angels Catholic church.

Mueller asked for a chance to make restitution.

"Not a chance," said Judge Hedding. "I put some money in that poor box myself."

Mueller was fined $10 and costs.

Wisconsin City Sponsors Junior Traffic Court

Police, public schools and civic organizations of Racine, Wis., are co-operating in a unique plan to promote safety in that city. One feature of this program is a juvenile "bicycle court" where the principles of careful conduct are taught and youngsters reprimanded for breaking traffic violations. Another requirement is that all junior and senior high school students take courses in safe driving.

Police Aid Sought In Hunt for Child

DAYTON, Nov. 6.—Sheriff Phil Kloos sought aid of Columbus police today in his search for six-year-old Shirley Love who he said was abducted from her school room last Tuesday.

Kloos said the child's mother, Mrs. Florence Love Reyer, and her second husband, John Reyer, formerly lived in Columbus, and expressed belief that Shirley was with them.

The father, Edward Love, a factory inspector, obtained custody of Shirley in a divorce order in 1934.

Held In Slaying

MEADVILLE, Pa., Nov. 6.—James Wals, 30, Niles, O. Negro, was held without bail today for hearing Nov. 19 on a murder charge in the death of Fain Strickland, 28, Meadville semi-professional baseball player. Arraigned yesterday, Wals pleaded innocent.

He was charged by District Attorney Herbert A. Mook after Strickland died of a bullet wound inflicted during a poolroom fight Wednesday night at which he was a bystander.

"Five's a Crowd"

Mrs. Peggy Stokes Gierding "Five's a crowd," at least when one is honeymooning. That was the complaint voiced by pretty Mrs. Peggy Stokes Gierding when she filed suit for divorce at Newark, N. J., against Dr. Edward Gierding. Mrs. Gierding, niece of former Governor Stokes of New Jersey, in her petition claimed that the doctor brought along his first wife and two daughters on their honeymoon and also boasted of his previous romantic conquests, much to her embarrassment.

RESUME STUDY OF COURT BILL

Members of Senate Subcommittee Gather to Start Fresh Study of Issues

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Members of a senate subcommittee began gathering Friday—nine months from the day President Roosevelt offered his court reorganization bill—to start a fresh study of the issues raised by that proposal.

Whether the judiciary issue is revived in congress may depend on their findings. President Roosevelt has given no indication of his own intentions.

The committee was ordered by the senate to study the whole judicial system and all the proposals made last spring for revising it. The members would have the right to recommend passage of the original Roosevelt bill or any substitute.

Because of the make-up of the committee, however, there is no likelihood that it will recommend anything very close to the President's proposal to revise the supreme court. Members have said there is small chance for agreement on any recommendation to deal with the judiciary except by a constitutional amendment.

During congressional recess.

subcommittee members have been making a nationwide study of court congestion as a preliminary to their broader inquiry.

Large Cities Will Discuss Finances

COLUMBUS, Nov. 6.—Representatives of the state's larger municipalities will be called to Columbus next Saturday to present before the special taxation commission their financial needs, especially with regard to relief.

The commission, in reaching the decision at a meeting yesterday, decided, however, to concentrate on a permanent taxation program and not to become involved in emergency financing. Many cities admittedly are facing an acute problem because of the defeat of special levies at the recent election.

Because of a variance in claims by the state tax commission and the department of education, the commission decided to ascertain the true financial condition of the foundation school program. Dr. D. H. Sutton, chief financial officer for the education department, will attend the commission's meeting next Friday to present his side of the situation.

May Be Useful

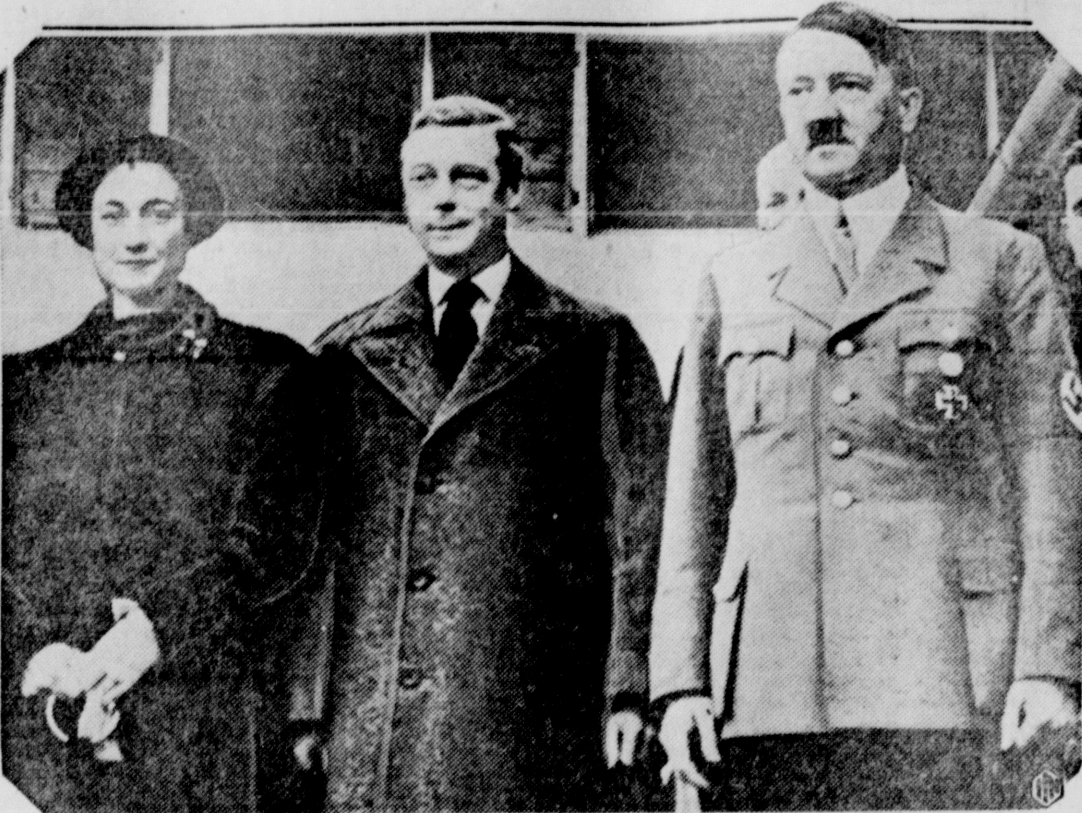

TOLEDO, Nov. 6.—A new use was held out today for the "cupid-oscope" invented by John Hawley and G. Edman Keefe, two Toledo university students, who hoped to measure emotions with the meter.

Dr. W. E. McClure, psychology professor, said the device was too crude for such purposes, but "it may pave the way for scientific research to test the resistance of the individual to electrical shock under emotional strain."

Go To It, Tarzan!

CLEVELAND, Nov. 6.—"Tarzan" a hairy and barrel-chested strong man, was free today to scamper up and down trees in a leopard-skin loin-cloth and try out a few yells. Police picked up "Tarzan" last night after residents reported his antics at Brookside park, but they released him after he convincingly said he was "practicing Tarzan to get in the movies."

Theater Attractions

Eddie Cantor in a scene from his new picture, "All Baba Goes to Town," showing at the State theater Sunday through Tuesday.

Eddie Cantor's first film in several seasons, "All Baba Goes to Town," shows Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the State theater.

The musical spectacle is a tale of the sultan's Bagdad modernized by Cantor. The picture opens with Cantor trudging through the desert. He sees a horde of Arabs charging down on him and runs for his life into an Arabian city where he is knocked down by the horses.

He awakens to find he has stumbled into a movie company on location and signs an injury release after he has been promised a part in the play. While he is waiting to appear Cantor goes to sleep and dreams the remainder of the story. Roland Young is seen as the sultan, Louise Hovick as the sultana, June Lang as the princess, Tony Martin as the princess' sweetheart. Others in the cast are Alan Dinehart, John Carradine, Douglas Dumbrille and Virginia Field.

Several new songs are introduced, including "I've Got My Heart Set on You," "Laugh Your Way Through Life," "Swing Is Here to Stay" and "Twilight in Turkey."

The cast includes Claude Rains, Gloria Dickson, Edward Norris, Otto Kruger, Ailyn Joylyn, Lana Turner, Linda Perry, Elsie Cook, Jr., Elizabeth Risdon and others.

Thursday and Friday the State will show the Irene Dunne-Cary Grant comedy, "The Awful Truth," Ralph Bellamy has an important supporting role.

Concluding tonight at the State is "Vogues of 1938" featuring Warner Baxter and Joan Bennett. Errol Flynn and Joan Blondell are co-stars in "The Perfect Specimen," a clever comedy at the Grand Sunday through Tuesday.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Let no man say when he is tempted, I am tempted of God; for God cannot be tempted with evil, neither tempteth he any man" (James 1:13).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "It is the opposite of good—that is, evil—which seems to make men capable of wrong-doing. Hence, evil is but an illusion, and it has no real basis. Evil is a false belief. It is not its author. The suppositions parent of evil is a lie" (p. 489).

The Voice of God

"The desperate situation in which the world finds itself today has been brought about by the mismanagement and willfulness of man, and by his desire to arrange his affairs without divine supervision. It is being utilized by the Almighty God to recall us to a more serious consideration of the really essential values in life and the stern realities of eternity. We believe that only a sobered and penitent world will be able to refashion and rebuild its disturbed condition. But the voice of divine admonition is falling upon so many deaf ears. Are your ears attuned to the call of God? In these serious times you need divine guidance, on need a full measure of those graces that come from God. You need the steady influence of His guidance and a balanced sense of values that His word alone can give."

Christian character and peace are very closely related. Where there truly is found the principles and teachings of Jesus Christ in human life and living, there will be peace. The Holy Scriptures point the proper path to peace by suggesting the Christian spirit of love, the spirit of forgiveness, Christian humility, praying for your enemies, practicing the Golden Rule, and talking it out with those with whom you differ. Jesus Christ can lead the whole human race to "the peace of God that passes all understanding."

Morning worship 11; sermon by the pastor.

"Passions are the all-consuming purposes which control men, the unfulfilling impulses which drive them steadily onward. The passions that controlled Jesus can be clearly discerned in the Gospels. The souls of mankind which were in bondage to sin could not be forgotten by Jesus. He came into the world to save sinners. Jesus had a passion for truth. He let no stone go unturned to bring the truth to the world. Jesus had a passion for humanity. Thus was it a distinct joy to show mercy unto mankind. Guarding Planes Against Ice

A mechanic shows a section of the new de-icing device being installed on IWA's transport planes to prevent possible formations of ice on the wings of the huge luxury airliners. Air, forced through three tubes every 47 seconds causes the covering on the front edge of the wing to expand an inch and a half, breaking off the thinnest ice formation. The wind does the rest.

The Voice of God

"The desperate situation in which the world finds itself today has been brought about by the mismanagement and selfishness of man, and his desire to arrange his affairs without divine supervision. It is being utilized by the Almighty God to recall us to a more serious consideration of the really essential values in life and the stern realities of eternity. We believe that only a sobered and penitent world will be able to refashion and rebuild its disturbed condition. But the voice of divine admonition is falling upon so many deaf ears. Are your ears attuned to the call of God? In these serious times you need divine guidance, or need a full measure of those graces that come from God. You need the steady influence of His guidance and a balanced sense of values that His word alone can give."

Science Society Services Sunday

"Adam and Fallen Man" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read at the morning worship service of the Christian Science Society tomorrow. The morning service is also broadcast over radio station WHK in Cleveland, the second and fourth Sundays of each month.

Sunday school for pupils up to the age of 20 years will be held at 9:30 a. m., while on Wednesday the regular mid-week service will be held at the church at 8 p. m.

The Golden Text is: "It is the spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing" (John 6:63).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Let no man say when he is tempted, I am tempted of God; for God cannot be tempted with evil, neither tempteth he any man" (James 1:13).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "It is the opposite of good—that is, evil—which seems to make men capable of wrong-doing. Hence, evil is but an illusion, and it has no real basis. Evil is a false belief, and is not its author. The supposed parent of evil is a lie" (p. 489).

HINDU DEFEATS EVANS IN MAIN GO OF PROGRAM

500 Fans See First Wrestling Show In Years at Memorial Gym

Everything but a free-for-all was packed into the city's first wrestling program in several years at the Memorial building last night and the some 500 fans who witnessed the show testified to its success with a goodly share of "boos" and cheers.

Frank (Toar) Julian, local strong boy who took to the mat game this summer under the guidance of Al Haft of Columbus, made a distinct hit with his home town public when he pinned Mike Kibbons of Tulsa, Okla. in 17 minutes of a scheduled 30-minute bout.

Nanjo Singh, dark-complexioned Hindu, and Don Evans of Columbus added color to a show with a main bout that ended with the floor outside the ring. Singh was declared the winner after clambering back into the ring before the count of 10.

Evans protested violently that he was pushed to the floor by Singh as he attempted to climb into the ring, but Referee Vic Tanski ruled that Evans had just as much chance as Singh to get back into the squared circle before the count ended.

The Hindu displayed a bloody nose as the result of his fall to the floor with the handsome Columbus grappler.

The main go went two falls before the decision was reached. Singh, who was unpopular with the crowd from the start, won the first fall in 22 minutes and 30 seconds, using a "smother" hold.

Within 45 seconds after the rest period, Evans came back to take the second fall from the Hindu.

The finish came seven minutes after the second rest period when Singh and Evans both rolled out of the ring after the Columbus artist had placed a flying scissors hold on the Hindu.

The two heavyweights grappled on the floor for several seconds before the Hindu got to his feet and started back into the ring, showing Evans down to the floor again as he did.

Julian held a clear cut edge over his Tulsa opponent in the 17-minute prelude and pinned Kibbons with a "bear hug." The Salem grappler was never in danger of losing the fall and worked nicely out of several tight spots during the match.

Julian demonstrated his renowned strength several times in the tussle when he tossed Kibbons around like a match stick on a rough ocean.

The semi-final between Joe Banaski, former world's light heavyweight champion, and Dutch Schultz of Dallas, Texas, was the slowest bout of the evening with both mat artists doing most of their grappling on foot.

Banaski was ruled winner of the bout after Referee Tanski disqualified Schultz for using foot tactics.

Banaski and Schultz had each won one fall before the match ended. The ex-champ took the second fall in 13 minutes after Schultz had won the first fall in 16 minutes.

Referee Tanski, a former Ohio State football player and wrestler, who in unofficial garb is a draftsman at the Electric Furnace Co. plant, turned in a fine job as third man in the ring and received as much of a workout as any of the grapplers. He was bounced around several times in three matches, but none of the wrestlers got the best of him.

Officials of the K. of P. lodge, which sponsored the show, announced that another program is being planned for the near future.

CHAMP APPEARS IN ICE FOLLIES

Shipstad Stars In Open- ing of Cleveland Ice Arena

CLEVELAND, Nov. 6. — Roy Shipstad, world champion professional figure skater who will open Cleveland's new million-dollar ice arena Wednesday night as the featured male star of the internationally famous "Ice Follies of 1938," is regarded as the greatest living skater by Producer Ed Mah-lke.

Shipstad performs the most complicated Paulsen's loop jumps, Lutz jumps, his great repertoire of whirls, spins, his superb weaving spread eagle maneuvers, with so light a touch, such ease, and such complete poise that he seems to have been born on skates.

His most famous figure is his spinning act, in which he goes from one type of spin into another revolving at such great speed that he becomes a flaming tower of light and has been dubbed the "Human Top" throughout the skating world.

In addition to his world renowned single skating act, Roy Shipstad will appear in the "Ice Follies of 1938" in a pair act with Miss Bess Erhardt, "America's Sweetheart of the Ice." These two, appearing in their second famous "death spiral" is recognized by skating masters as the most spectacular and difficult figure ever performed on ice.

"The Ice Follies of 1938" will play at Cleveland's Arena for five consecutive nights from Wednesday, Nov. 10 through Sunday, Nov. 14.

HOOSIERS OUT TO STOP OHIO IN LOOP GAME

Big Ten Conference Rivals Meet In Headline Game at Columbus

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Nov. 6.—Indiana's Hoosiers hoped to halt Ohio's march toward the Western conference gridiron championship as the two teams tangled today at the Buckeye stadium before 50,000 fans in the Big Ten's outstanding conflict.

The Hoosiers had to hurdle the Hoosiers to have a chance at the title, and a successful play would just about clear the way to the finish as only Illinois and Michigan remain on the Buckeye slate. Neither, barring decided upsets, appeared too tough to take.

Today's classic loomed as an "even-Steve" scrap, despite the fact the Hoosiers had been beaten twice and the Bucks but once. The Hoosiers might well boast a clean slate, if the payoff were on yards gained instead of points.

Indiana pushed Minnesota and Nebraska all over the lot, but failed to score, dropping each contest by a touchdown. Last week, in losing to Nebraska 7 to 0, the Hoosiers piled up 14 first downs to two for the victors, but fell victim to a surprise thrust which netted Nebraska a touchdown in the first 17 seconds.

Coach "Bo" McMillin of Indiana, who created a furor a couple of years ago by coming up with a five-man backfield which the officials discussed at great length before deciding it was legal, has a new one this year. This time it's a five-man line on defense, designed to mull up the blocking assignments of the foe.

Indiana has quite a bit to offer in the way of a straight-forward wall, and a versatile but not speedy backfield. The visitors were granted an edge in the ball-toting department, while Ohio's line received the nod.

Both clubs presented sturdy defenses this season. Ohio allowing but two touchdowns and Indiana three in five games. Ohio had an 85 to 52 edge in the scoring department, but rolled up 39 of the points against Chicago's hapless Maroons.

Ohio's usual starting lineup was to answer the opening whistle, but a couple of shifts were made by McMillin. Russ was in place of George Miller who suffered a fractured thumb a week ago, while Don Heistand took over Fowler's right halfback job to add a bit of speed to that sector.

Both teams were determined to "shoot the works," Indiana hoping to break into the victory column against the Bucks for the first time since 1924, and Ohio seeking to enhance its position in the title chase.

Game time was 2 p. m. (E. S. T.) The probable lineups:

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 6. — Pittsburgh's powerful Panthers, proving the national gridiron honors trail, found their match blocked by the fighting Irish of Notre Dame today.

A crowd of 56,000, the largest ever to visit Notre Dame's stadium, was expected to witness what was rated the outstanding contest of the day's intercollegiate football menu.

Pittsburgh, undefeated but held to a scoreless tie by Fordham, figured to win with a line rated one of the finest in the nation and a powerhouse offense headed by Marshall (Biggie) Goldberg.

Notre Dame, however, after a slow start which included a scoreless tie with Illinois and defeat by Carnegie Tech, has shown sign of well-balanced strength in upset wins over Navy and Minnesota and was given a good chance of upsetting the dogs again.

Pittsburgh Meets Notre Dame in Grid Classic

Headline gridiron contest of the 1937 season brings together the powerful Pittsburgh Panthers and Notre Dame's Fighting Irish at South Bend. Two All-Americans, Marshall Goldberg, halfback, and Bill Daddio, tackle, stand out for Pitt, while Notre Dame's attack is headed by Andy Puplis and Nevin McCormick, star backs. This is the last meeting of the two powerhouses.

Three records went by the boards in the Federal Bowling league at the Masonic temple alleys last night as Dallas DeRhodes of the Salem News set new high individual single and three game marks and the Newsies rolled 901 for a new high team single game score.

DeRhodes rolled 234 to establish a new single game record and combined this score with games of 171 and 175 for a 580 total and a new three game record.

The Newsies won two out of three games from Brownie's Amoco Gas. In other matches, Demings won two out of three from the Sanitary Office, the Electric Furnace won two out of three from the Gas Co. and the Sanitary Shop won two out of three from the Columbiana County Engineers.

A special match between Mullins Die Room of the Pastime league and the Columbiana All-Stars was won by the Die Room, 2488 to 2452.

UNBEATEN CASE IS HANDICAPPED
Star Fullback Is Missing From Lineup In Contest With B. W.

(By Associated Press)
Although the invasion of Bo McMillin's Hoosiers at Ohio State took over the number one position on Ohio's gridiron menu today, plenty of competition was promised on other fronts.

At Cleveland, Case's rough riders unbeaten in six games and tied only once clashes with Baldwin-Wallace.

Both teams entered the game below normal strength. Case was handicapped by an injury that was expected to keep Ray Mickovsky, its all Ohio fullback, on the sidelines.

B-W has lost the Lundblad brothers, Ted and Paul, and Dave Aron, through withdrawal from school and center Bob Cawse will be out of the game with a touch of influenza.

Another battle will see Dayton's unbeaten-united steamroller taking on Toledo's Rockets.

In the Buckeye loop, Miami will seek to avenge a 13 to 0 defeat last year which cost them the championship when it meets Ohio Wesleyan. Ohio U. goes to Cincinnati for another Buckeye tilt.

Western Reserve's Red Cats who had their victory string snapped by the Dayton outfit last week, faces the comeback trial meeting a tough foe in the big orange eleven of Syracuse. The Red Cats are expected to depend largely on a forward passing attack with Ford Davis and Johnny Andrews doing most of the throwing.

Other games include: Oberlin at Wooster, Findlay at Kent State, Wittenberg at Bowling Green, Mount Union at Denison, Muskingum at Ohio Northern, Capital at Heidelberg, Olivet at John Carroll, Hiram at Otterbein, Kenyon at Lake Forest, Davis & Elkins at Akron, Wilberforce at Lincoln U., Bluffton at Defiance, W. & J. at Marietta and Creighton at Xavier.

Penn and Penn State expect 40,000, too, while Dartmouth and Princeton should draw 30,000 to Princeton's Palmer stadium. Crowds of about 20,000 are due to see Holy Cross and Colgate at Worcester, Mass. Temple and Michigan state at Philadelphia and Navy and Columbia at Baltimore while New Haven expects 25,000 in the bowl for the Yale-Brown battle.

California, in a severe test for its Rose Bowl aspirations, meets Washington before 50,000 with about as many in the stands for the Southern California and Stanford clash. Tulane and Alabama are due to draw 30,000 with 20,000 on hand for the Auburn-Tennessee clash.

Mississippi State smothered George Washington 27 to 6 last night at Washington; shaded Oklahoma 12 to 0 and Texas Tech trimmed Loyola of New Orleans in leading games.

Motorists' Ears Quicker Than Eyes In Responding to Safety Warnings

(By Associated Press)

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Nov. 6. — The ear of an automobile driver is quicker than his eye in responding to a safety warning.

An auto horn, or a policeman's whistle puts the driver's foot on the brake faster than the sight of a red light.

These findings in safe driving were announced today at Indiana university. They were the first tests to compare a driver's reaction time to sound and sight. They were made by Dr. Frank R. Elliott and Prof. C. M. Louttit of the psychology department.

Seven hundred drivers were tested. Each one sat in the driver's seat, with one foot pressing the accelerator half way to the floor. The time required to lift this foot to the brake and press the pedal all the way down was taken.

The signal to put on the brake was either a red light directly in front, or an automobile horn. The signals were given with the car standing still. All groups, whether men or women, young or old, responded more quickly to the horn than to the light.

The average advantage of the ear over the eye was one-hundredth of a second. In individual cases, however, the fastest braking time for the red light was three-tenths of a second; the quickest for the horn a little more than two-fifths of a second.

Men were a little faster than women in responding to either light or horn.

Braking time decreased moderately with the age of the subject.

In general, it appeared that the average driver can be relied upon to have his brakes on half a second after a warning. Professional drivers did better than half a second.
